Dear colleagues,

It is our pleasure to invite you to the Spring Meeting of the Swiss Society of Pharmacology & Toxicology, which will take place on April 19, 2018, in Bern. This year's topic will be THERAPEUTIC ANTIBODIES.

The aim of the meeting is to gather researchers and scientists interested or working in the fields of experimental pharmacology, clinical pharmacology, clinical, experimental or regulatory toxicology, or in pharmaceutical medicine. Each discipline will present the opportunities and perspectives in their fields. In this context we also aim to encourage and foster the contacts between the academic, clinical and industrial sector. Another benefit of the meeting is that it provides to our younger members the possibility for contacts in order to help them preparing their career plans in the academic, clinical, industrial or other fields.
